1974 (Jan 8): letter from Arthur J. Garrow DC at "University of Pasadena, College of Chiropractic," 774 East Green St., Pasadena CA to Ernest G. Napolitano DC, President, Association of Chiropractic Colleges (CCE Archives):

Dear Doctor Napolitano:

The University of Pasadena, College of Chiropractic is a new chiropractic college located here on the west coast. We have spent over a year in the preparation of this college, organizing such vital aspects as facilities, administration, faculty, curriculum and operational procedures, in order that we may offer the chiropractic student, what we believe to be, an outstanding academic experience.

We have been invited by the Council on Chiropractic Education to become a member of their group, however, we are also interested in the Association of Chiropractic Colleges.

As such, I will appreciate any information you can forward me regarding qualifications, application and accreditation requirements of the A.C.C.

Thank you for your consideration of our request and I look forward to your reply.

Kindest regards,...

1974 (Jan 14): letter to Arthur J. Garrow DC at University of Pasadena, College of Chiropractic, from Ernest G. Napolitano DC, President, Association of Chiropractic Colleges (CCE Archives):

Dear Dr. Garrow:

As of your request I am enclosing publications relative to the Association of Chiropractic Colleges. If, after reviewing these writings you wish an application please do not hesitate to write and I shall be most happy to comply.

May I wish you every success in your educational endeavors.

Sincerely,...

1975 (Aug): ACA Journal of Chiropractic (12[8]) reports:

-"California" (p. 26):

Dr. Kenneth Allen, a Vallejo doctor of chiropractic, delivered the graduation address of the first graduating class of the University of Pasadena on June 29. The ceremonies were held at the Pasadena Civic Center.

The University of Pasadena first opened in February 1974. At present, the chiropractic college is the only one in full operation, but the dean of the university is hopeful that very soon other schools will be opened and that eventually a complete range of academic courses will be available...

Dr. Allen is president of California Chiropractic Association

1976 (Mar/Apr): Today's Chiropractic (5[2]) reports:

-"University of Pasadena" (p. 56):

...Total enrollment for this term is 179.

Classes are still small enough in this new chiropractic college to be intimate and personalized...

Quality education has provided six willed cadavers from the University of California School at Irvine, which the dissection class shared with underclassmen.

Growth comes with the offering of classes in the School of Natural Sciences, which has been founded under the University of Pasadena to provide courses for prospective chiropractic students who lack the necessary undergraduate prerequisites in the biological sciences.

A change is being made in accordance with CCE regulations. Night classes are being phased out. The last night class will graduate in June 1978...

Guest lecturers enhance the University of Pasadena education and chiropractic outlook. Recent speakers include Reg Gold, D.C., vice-president of Sherman College of Chiropractic, who spoke on "How Big Is Your Vision?"; Bernard Jensen, D.C., N.D., active in the fields of nutrition and iridology, who spoke on "The Whole Man"; H. Patak, D.C., teacher at Los Angeles College of Chiropractic, who spoke about naturopathy; and Richard Van Rump, D.C., director and founder of the Directional Nonforce Technique, who enlightened students on the history of chiropractic...

1979 (May/June): The Chiro-Practor (PaCC) (2[4]) notes:

-"Clinical care and management" by Kirby & Robinson; Jay D.

Kirby DC (formerly of LACC) is Director of Clinics and Earl S. Robinson DC is Chairman of Clinical Sciences at PaCC (p. 24)

-"A special tribute" by Jay D. Kirby DC notes death of George Haynes DC, MA in May, 1979, and that Haynes was member of the PaCC board of trustees (p. 28)

1980: JG Anderson DC, ND left AECC, began as part-time instructor at PaCC, then full-time (Anderson, 1995)

1983-86: JG Anderson DC, ND serves as dean of PaCC; becomes Dean Emeritus in 1986, replaced as dean by Don Reas DC (Anderson, 1995)
