

National Chiropractic Journal 1943 (July); 12(7): 9; journal caption reads: "Ten years ago a member of the Texas House of Legislature and author of a Chiropractic bill, the Honorable Sidney Latham, seated, predicted that his bill would be defeated but that a Chiropractic Bill would become law within ten years. This is the tenth year of that prediction and Mr. Latham, now Texas Secretary of State, is seen signing the Chiropractic Bill which gives legal recognition to chiropractors in the state for the first time. Witnessing the historic event are, left to right: Dr. Hugh Warren, President of the Texas Chiropractic Association; Dr. Roy LeMond, President of the Texas Research Society and co-chairman of the Legislative Committee; Dr. Charles C. Lemly, who has been in the forefront of every legislative campaign in Texas since 1915, and Dr. Ernest Chaney who also added his weight to the legislative battle."
